

STRONG PLEA IS MADE BY DARROW IN FRANKS CASE

Leopold and Loeb Both Show Effect of Powerful Speech

CHICAGO, Aug. 22. (AP)—The killing of Bobby Franks was a senseless thing, an unreasonable, unexplainable and foolish act that could have been conceived and executed only by a diseased mind. Clarence S. Darrow, 67 year old veteran of criminal court battles in his plea today before Judge John R. Caverly for the lives of Nathan F. Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb.

"Why did they kill little Bobby Franks?" asked the gray haired pleader, pointing a shaking forefinger at the judge.

"Not for money. They had that. Not for spite, not for hate. They killed him as they might kill a fly or spider, for the experience. Because somewhere," and here the stringent tone shrank to a piteous wail.

"In the infinite processes that go to the making of the boy or the man, something slipped. And now these unfortunate lads sit here hated, despised, outcast and with the community shouting for their blood."

The appeal proved too much for the self-control of the culprits. Thruout most of the afternoon they sat tense, Loeb following every movement of the pleader. Leopold growing pale beneath his customary ruddy flush.

But when Mr. Darrow's eloquence pictured disgrace to the families, the grief to mothers, the sorrow of fathers, the blasted hopes for the boys, themselves, Dickie flicked tears from his cheeks and Leopold stumbled from the court room with bowed head.

Leopold Overcome
So overcome was the latter that he struck blindly against a partition narrowing the entrance to the "bull pen."

The impact drove him aside but he did not raise his head. With extended arms he plowed past the bailiffs and fairly plunged into the elevator that was waiting to convey him to the approach of Cook county's "bridge of sighs."

Judge Caverly leaned forward resting his chin upon his clasped hands and riveting his eyes upon the speaker. But what went on behind the judicial mask was not visible.

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney and his assistant prosecutors sat motionless. Earlier in the day Mr. Crowe had interrupted Walter Bachrach, junior counsel for the defense as the latter sought by the evidence and written opinions of the prosecution's own alienists to show that Leopold and Loeb had "paranoid personalities."

But no voice from the chairs of the state's forces while Mr. Darrow was speaking.

Surrounding the judge were visiting legal luminaries from other Chicago courts and from outside cities.

Back of the speaker were hundreds of spectators who had gained places in the room after a struggle thru a mob of curiosity seekers whose tactics became so rough that half a hundred extra policemen had to be summoned.

A small riot preceded the opening of the afternoon session. The struggle to gain admission to the already crowded court room ended only when the re-inforced police carried out Judge Caverly's order to clear the entire building.

STORM AGAIN HITS
MICHIGAN TOWN

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Aug. 22.—Osceola, the scene of a tornado two weeks ago, suffered property damage in yesterday's storm that may run as high as $400,000 it was indicated today with the restoration of communication with the stricken area. The list of property casualties includes the destruction of 30 barns and from 60 to 70 smaller buildings. Four farm houses were demolished, while five farm houses suffered partial damage. Standing crops in this vicinity suffered a great loss.

Telephone poles owned by the Wisconsin Telephone company were blown down along a strip measuring a mile and a half. Hundreds of trees were uprooted.

DARK SPOTS ON MARS MAY BE SNOW

Flagstaff, Ariz., Aug. 22.—Immovable dark spots observed on the planet Mars in observations from Lowell Observatory here the last two nights possibly may be snow, E. C. Shipper, photographic expert at the observatory, said today.

The spots covered an area of about 10,000 square miles appearing on the bright colored areas of the planet defined as desert regions by astronomers. Mr. Shipper said. They were located 15 degrees north of the equator and 135 degrees of longitude.

BANK EMPLOYEES OF ST. LOUIS AND BANK AT VENICE HELD UP

Robberies Happen Simultaneously With Heavy Losses

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 22.—Police of two states are searching tonight for robbers who today entered the Venice State Bank at Venice, Illinois, and escaped with $5,851 in currency, and three highwaymen who robbed two employees of the Industrial Savings Trust company of $2,389 in currency at the entrance to an alley here.

The two robberies took place practically simultaneously in St. Louis and Venice.

The robbery of the Venice bank marked a return visit of robbers who held up the bank July 7 and escaped with $12,497 and brings the total of bank robberies in Southern Illinois within the last five months to eleven, with a total loss of approximately $120,000.

The two messengers of the St. Louis bank were on their way to the Bank of Commerce carrying the currency in a bundle which also contained checks to the amount of $30,000 when they were stopped by the three bandits with drawn revolvers.

Not a word was spoken and the robbery was accomplished so quickly that only a few of the many persons on the street knew a robbery was taking place. Payment on the checks has been stopped.

The Venice robbery was carried out by four unmasked bandits who entered the building with drawn revolvers and forced the cashier, assistant cashier, bookkeeper and customer to comply with their command of "hands up."

Scraping up all the currency in sight, they marched the bank employees into the vault and locked them in, escaping in an automobile awaiting outside. The bank employees quickly released themselves by means of a latch on the inside of the vault and two of them secured revolvers and rushed to the door, firing shots at the retreating cars.

Police set out in pursuit. Assistant Cashier N. E. Dismore and Bookkeeper Marion Greenough declared they recognized the robbers as the same men who robbed the bank on July 7. Because of the similarity of methods employed the police believe the men are a part of a gang who have taken part in the numerous robberies in Southern Illinois recently.

REICHSTAG ADJOURNS
WITHOUT TAKING ANY
DAWES PLAN ACTION

One Lone Communist Holds
Up Reading on Report
Till Today

BERLIN, Aug. 22. (AP).—A lone communist today succeeded in defying the reichstag's rules of order and President Wallraf's bell for more than three hours, finally forcing an adjournment of parliament and compelling the cabinet members to retire from the government bench without having submitted the government's statement on the work of the international conference in London.

President Wallraf will make another attempt to convoke the reichstag tomorrow morning and it is hoped that the postponed reading of the government's statement will proceed without hindering disturbances.

The text of Chancellor Marx's speech had already been released, and was in type for the late street editions of the newspapers when the disturbance in the reichstag began. It will be delivered along with statements by Dr. Stresemann and Dr. Luther in the morning.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE
WORKS IN HAY FIELD

PLYMOUTH, Aug. 22.—In his first attempt at farming since his arrival here President Coolidge had difficulty today pitching hay for the cameramen who trailed him at every move. Dressed in overalls but in his regular street shoes and white shirt with collar off, Mr. Coolidge slipped down to the hayfield of his cousin, Ed Blanchard this morning about 10 o'clock, using his regular white house car. The president had volunteered to help Blanchard earlier in the week but rain prevented. The ride soon developed into a caravan, photographers, newspapermen and some of the villagers falling into line.

THEY'RE ALL OUT OF
STEP BUT FOSTER

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 22.—Attacking the league of nations, the Dawes plan, the wage system, Samuel Gompers and both major parties, W. Z. Foster, presidential nominee of the workers party in a political address here tonight declared Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, independent candidate for president, "a pseudo-leader of the working class, who is not even a socialist."

Is Believed There is no Cause for Alarm As To Fate

ON BOARD U. S. LAWRENCE, Aug. 22. (By Wireless via Battle Harbor, Labrador and Fago, N. F. By the A. P.).—Lieutenant Smith from Fredericksdal reports that natives heard an airplane humming above them after the last of the American army planes had landed in Greenland waters Thursday evening. A party of Eskimos is being organized to search for Lieutenant Locatelli, the missing Italian aviator between Cape Farewell on the southern point of Greenland and Ivigtut on the southwest coast of Greenland, north of where Lieutenant Smith and Lieutenant Nelson made their landing from Iceland. The Danish steamship Island Falk is aiding in the search. The American cruisers Richmond and Raleigh are aiding in the search also.

REYKJAVIK, Aug. 22. (AP).—Scout planes which were dispatched today from the American warships patrolling the North Atlantic to look for Lieutenant Locatelli, Italian aviator who left here with the American fliers yesterday but failed to arrive at Fredericksdal, Greenland, were forced by dense fog to return to their mother ships this evening without having found any trace of the missing aviator.

This was learned in a message received here tonight from the Danish supply ship Gertrud Rask which is at Angmagssalik on the northeast coast of Greenland.

Also very little news from Greenland was received today. It is believed here that there is no cause for alarm as to the fate of the Italian flier who has not been heard from since he was sighted by the American vessels during the earlier stage of the American flier hop from Iceland to Greenland.

Since yesterday it is understood that the weather off the Greenland coast has been good the winds favorable and the sea smooth and it is believed most likely that Lieutenant Locatelli made a landing on one of the Fjords between Fredericksdal and Ivigtut on the west coast of Greenland.

The Gertrud Rask, which took up her station at Angmagssalik when it was expected the aviator would fly to that point, reported that she was clear of ice and that she expected to arrive here by Monday.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22. (AP).—The army air service was officially advised tonight that the American fliers had reached Greenland.

The information was contained in a message from the cruiser Milwaukee, which said that Lieutenant Locatelli, the Italian aviator who started from Iceland with the Americans on their 825 mile hop, when last heard of was preceding the Americans by forty minutes.

The despatch, which was undated was signed by Lieutenant Bissell of the army air service and was filed by way of Louisville, N. S., it said.

"Smith and Nelson (the American aviators) arrived safely at Fredericksdal. Nothing definite from Locatelli, who when last heard from was preceding our planes by forty minutes. Details later."

GIRL IS HELD FOR
2ND DEGREE MURDER

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Aug. 22. (AP).—Justice Ray W. Davis today held Florence McKinney, 19 year old Royalton township girl, to trial in the September term of circuit court after reducing a charge of first degree murder to a charge of second degree murder.

Ball was fixed by the court at $5,000 which at an early hour tonight had not been furnished. Miss McKinney's relatives, however, were reported to be arranging bonds. The preliminary hearing of the McKinney girl, held in connection with the killing August 6 of Cora May Raber of Glendora, her rival for the affections of Emil Zupke who authorities say has confessed choking the Raber girl to death, was cut short late today, after Zupke was questioned by Prosecuting Attorney Charles W. Gore.

Zupke declared that altho he first conceived the idea of killing Raber, he did not consult her or tell her why he asked her to drive his car.

DRUGGIST PLEADS GUILTY TO LIQUOR CHARGE

Paris, Ill., Aug. 22.—Al E. Schnitker, for 40 years a druggist at Chrisman, pleaded guilty today in federal court at Danville to selling liquor without prescriptions. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $500.

Ku Klux Klan Openly Denounced By Davis

SEAGIRT, N. J., Aug. 22.—The Ku Klux Klan was denounced by name here today by John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential candidate.

In a fighting address to the democracy of New Jersey Mr. Davis condemned that and any other organization raising the standard of racial and religious prejudice. Then he called upon President Coolidge as the standard bearer of the Republican party to join him by "some explicit declaration" in "entirely removing this topic from the field of political debate."

In naming the Klan in this, the second address of his campaign, the Democratic nominee again brought into the open an issue which rent the Democratic national convention that nominated him and led to the memorable Saturday night battle in Madison Square Garden which culminated in a record vote and a majority of four against denunciation of the Klan by name in the party platform.

Having discussed it rather fully in his acceptance address, Mr. Davis apparently did not intend to refer to it again in his address here. He told his audience that since his arrival here from New York last night he had been asked by more than one person as to the views he entertained toward the Klan. Decision to state his position clearly, once and for all, as he put it, is understood to have crystallized at a conference which Mr. Davis had last night with several party leaders at the home of Governor Silzer.

Mr. Davis said at the outset that the issue was one that had no proper place in this or any other campaign and that he mentioned it in the hope that he might dispose of it once and for all so far as he was concerned.

"Whenever any organization no matter what it chooses to be called, whether Ku Klux Klan or by any other name, raises the standard of racial and religious belief as a text of fitness for public office, it does violence to the spirit of American institutions and must be condemned by all those who believe as I do in American ideals," he said. "To this end I venture, here and now, to express the hope that the nominee of the Republican party will see fit to join me in entirely removing this topic from the field of political debate."

Declaring that the Republicans should not be "pained or surprised" if the Democrats asked them to give an account of what they have done or left undone, Mr. Davis said they must "not blame us if we jog the public memory concerning some things they might otherwise wish to have forgotten."

"I do not say as a certain gentleman did this week, that we should get down to brass tacks," Mr. Davis said, referring to the acceptance address of Charles G. Dawes, the Republican vice-presidential candidate. "But I mean the same thing when I quote from the scriptures 'beware, ye of the leaven of the Pharisees which is hypocrisy.' But there is nothing covered up that shall not be revealed, nothing hid that shall not be known. Therefore, whatever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light and that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the house tops."

"That is the text I have adopted in the guidance of the Democratic party in this campaign."

MYSTERIOUS SIGNALS ARE HEARD BY MANY
WIRELESS OPERATORS

Many Stations Throat The World Try to Get in Touch With Mars

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 22. (AP).—Signals of mysterious origin received with peculiar frequency, were reported tonight by radio operators of station WOR. The station is keeping an all night watch in an endeavor to "listen in" on Mars.

The operator declared the signals were distinctly heard on a wave length of 25,000 meters for more than two hours commencing shortly after 7 o'clock. He explained the sounds were recorded quite faintly at first the degree of loudness increasing as they continued. Despite the clearness of the signals, the operator declared no known code could be distinguished.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 22. (AP).—Radio signals of such a nature that they yesterday caused veteran operators in the Point Grey Wireless Station to believe that Mars was sending were repeated today.

A radio operator at the Merchants Exchange of this city, a marine information distributing agency, reported that he also heard the same sort of signals today.

The strange sounds were caught at 6:20 and 7:12 this morning. At these same instants they had been heard on previous days thruout four weeks.

LONDON, Aug. 23. (AP).—An attempt by the British wireless experts to "listen in" on Mars resulted in strange noises being heard at 1 o'clock this (Saturday) morning. The sources of the noises could not be ascertained by the experts. The attempt was made on a twenty four valve (tube) set erected on a hill at Dulwich.

Representatives of the Marconi company at London universities were present. Tuning in started at 12:30 o'clock a. m., and at 1 a. m., on a 30,000 meters radius sounds were heard which could not be identified as coming from an earthly station.

The sounds were likened to harsh dots but they could not be interpreted as Morse code. The noises continued on and off for three minutes in groups of four and five dots.

RADIO BROADCASTS
FULL SHAM BATTLE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 22. (AP).—While an entire division of National Guardsmen were in actual combat against an imaginary red army at Camp Henry Knox tonight a powerful radio-casting station transmitted the "batter of half an hour's heavy bombardment with realistic effect."

With a war correspondent in the field detailing the movement of several thousand troops and guns booming on all sides of the microphone, the feat marked a new conquest for radio's sphere.

It presages the time when other may tell the tale of real war, army officers believe. The United States signal corps supervised the radio-casting from station WHAS.

PERSHING DECLARES
FOR PREPAREDNESS

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 22.—Vowing to continue in active service for preparedness after his retirement September 13 next as chief of staff of the United States army, yet defending his position against the term "militaristic," General John J. Pershing in an address here today appealed for the support of the nation behind plans of the government for national defense.

"No man in this room can say that I am a militarist," he said. "I want to say something I never have said in a public address before. It seems to me that there is some middle ground where we should bear a certain part of the expense in maintaining the allied armies at the front, instead of calling every bit of the money loaned to Europe a loan and insisting on its repayment."

"We are responsible," he said. "We declared war, then gave the money, knowing that it would be used to hold the boche back until we could prepare."

FRANKIE GENARO WINS
FROM BILLY LEVINE

New York, Aug. 22.—Frankie Genaro, flyweight champion of the United States won a judge's decision over Billy Levine of New York in a 12-round bout at the Steeplechase A. A. Rockaway Beach tonight.

COOLIDGE WANTS WORLD AT PEACE BEFORE MEETING

Will Discuss Arma- ments After Dawes Plan Acceptance

PLYMOUTH, Vermont, Aug. 22. (AP).—President Coolidge, it was stated here today, wants the reparations problem completely settled and peace definitely established in the world before extending invitations to another conference on the limitation of armaments, which he has proposed.

Meanwhile the administration will not seek to push negotiations for settlement of the debts of foreign nations due this country lest it interfere with the solution of the reparations problem and the putting of the Dawes' plan into operation.

President Coolidge disclosed his views on official affairs publicly today for the first time since he started his vacation a week ago meeting with newspapermen. Today also is practically the first time he has broken the veritable seclusion he has kept, on his vacation at his father's home. He has received only a few intimate friends during the week and described himself today as well rested and refreshed by his stay at home.

On domestic affairs, the president was said to be much encouraged over the business outlook in this country, particularly in view of the successful outcome of the international conference on the Dawes reparations plan.

Likewise he was reported as pleased over the political situation including that in Maine, altho reports reaching here have been of a casual nature. Mr. Coolidge has not discussed politics with Chairman Butler of the National committee since coming here and he is said to have no plans for taking part in the campaign expecting to devote most of his attention to the duties of his office.

The president has no speaking engagements of a political nature, it was said, nor has he any plans for making any. Several addresses are on his calendar, but these will be for specific occasions.

Similarly, Mr. Coolidge has not reached any conclusions on the reports of the tariff commission on the sugar duty and on the personnel of the agriculture commission, which he has said he will appoint. Members of the cabinet have been asked for suggestions in connection with the latter.

KLAN WILL FIGHT AGAINST LAFOLLETTE

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 22. (AP).—Dr. H. W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan in a statement here today, said that the strength of the invisible empire would be thrown against the presidential candidacy of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, while a neutral stand would be taken in the contest between President Coolidge and John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate.

"La Follette is the arch enemy of the nation," the statement said, "no man who endangered the success of his nation in time of war is fit to hold any office."

"Both Coolidge and Davis are nationals, and Americans, aides of the Klan in the attempt to 'Americanize America' and for this reason the Klan will take no part in the political struggle as far as they are concerned."

Dr. Evans was here to preside over the state convention of the Klan which opened in secret session today.

CHOOSING BANDITRY
FOR VACATION THRILL

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 22.—Virgil Dackir, 20 years old of Toledo, chose banditry as a vacation thrill, he told Detroit police today following his arrest last night.

Dackir in company with another man was stopped by a policeman for having improper lights on the car they were driving. The policeman searched the car and found three pistols. Dackir's arrest followed.

Dackir, a student at a military academy at Stoney Point, Ill., blamed his companion, whom he said he met in Columbus, Ohio, for putting the idea of banditry, to enliven his vacation days, into his head.

SKIFF OVERTURNS;
THREE ARE DROWNED

New Orleans, Aug. 22.—Three women drowned in the Mississippi river tonight when a skiff overturned near Burwood, La. The dead were Mrs. Emil Wagner, Mrs. Henry Huber and Miss Henrietta Conway all of Burwood. Eight persons were in the skiff. Five were saved. The party had just started on a bathing excursion when one of the women tilted the skiff overturning it.

DAWES PROMISES TO MAKE HIS SPEECHES SHORT AND CONCISE

Says Americans Have De- cided to Look at Ground Under Feet

WESTBROOK, Conn., Aug. 22.—Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for vice-president named the first impromptu front porch speech of his campaign today, addressing a group of several hundred residents of Westbrook and other Connecticut coast towns, gathered at a reception accorded him at the Quonset Golf club.

The reception was non-partisan the Democratic selection of Westbrook going with the Republican selection to welcome the nominee, Mr. Dawes for that reason announced that he would not make a partisan address.

"It is entirely non-partisan to say, however, that long speeches are not conducive to clearness of statement and in my opinion they are not conducive to the creation of conviction," said Mr. Dawes. "And in this campaign I am going to try to speak short—not simply because it is popular but because by short speaking and clear speaking I can leave, I hope, some impression upon the minds and consciences of my countrymen. Now in this campaign, with the long winded discussions of the material things and the things which relate to our ordinary conditions, there is going to be a discussion of the things that are fundamental. The American people themselves have decided to look at the ground under their feet."

"Attacks have been made on the constitution of the United States, upon which we all stand. Questions of common citizenship are involved. Conditions today are too serious to trifle with. And all I am going to try to do in this campaign is to speak the truth, as I say, and as sincerely and as forcibly as I can discuss these fundamental issues, along with these other questions which divide us on less important things."

Following the address Mr. Dawes left for New Haven, intending to stop at East River to call at the summer home of Charles Hopkins Clark of Hartford.

At New Haven before leaving at 8:13 p. m., for Maine, Mr. Dawes and his party will be entertained at dinner at the Hotel Taft and, if time permits, will visit the Yale observatory to take a look thru the telescope at the planet Mars.

DENUNCIATION TAKES
LARGE PART OF DAY
IN FRENCH HEARING

Poincaré, U. S. and England
All Come in For Heavy
Abuse

PARIS, Aug. 22. (AP).—A general assault on former Premier Poincaré's Ruhr policy and communist leader Cachin's arraignment of the United States and Great Britain as "war like imperialists," today occupied a solid eight hours' debate in the chamber of deputies on the agreement reached at the international conference in London. There were sundry references to Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain as a "false friend of France."

The Dawes and Reparation plan came in for a heavy cross fire from M. Cachin and Leon Blum, Socialist leader.

Premier Herriot defended himself frequently, enunciating the high idealistic standard that "France's right must be her strength" and blaming the admitted weaknesses of his negotiations upon the errors or pledges of previous governments.

M. Blum of the most able debaters in the chamber, made a lengthy speech which he prefaced with the announcement that his followers would vote confidence in the government. Nevertheless he attacked the government and the Dawes plan freely.

PEORIA RECOVERING FROM RECENT STORM

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 22.—All trains on roads out of Peoria have been restored after repair of bridges and road beds washed out by recent rains altho service is being slowed down and many trains are running late.

Reports from Fulton county tonight said the damage there would be approximately $1,000,000.

The Mackinaw river and Edwards and Kickapoo Creeks were receding rapidly tonight. The Illinois river here is also going down.

HEADLESS BODY OF MAN IS FOUND

Los Angeles, Aug. 22.—A headless body found in the willows of Peoria Creek near Whittier, east of here, was tentatively identified today as Henry Carpenter, manager of a chain grocery unit at Bell Station near Whittier who disappeared June 28. Portions of the head were found not far from the torso and investigating officers expressed belief that he was shot or cut and the body dismembered.

GOVERNOR SMALL HIGHLY PRAISES 33RD DIVISION

Promises Many Addi- tional Improvements at Camp Grant

CAMP GRANT, Ill., Aug. 22.—Governor Small today stated he was heartily in favor of an extensive building program for making Camp Grant one of the finest military training centers in the United States.

"I believe in giving Illinois the best, hard roads or what not," he said. He made the statement after witnessing a review tendered to him by the 33rd division units, ending their two weeks tour of duty here under the command of Major General Milton J. Foreman.

"I believe everything within reason should be done to perpetuate the activities of this military training camp."

"I was certainly surprised at the great change that has taken place in this camp since it was acquired by the state. A fine start has been made. There are more improvements coming, he added."

Governor Small highly complimented General Foreman, his officers, and his men for the review tendered him.

"I could hardly believe that those men who marched by with such snap and precision were members of the Illinois National Guard. It was an impressive sight."

Governor Small arrived in the camp this morning about 11 o'clock. He was accompanied by Lieutenant Governor Fred E. Sterling, General Foreman was waiting for him at the division headquarters.

Taking their mounts, the party rode to the reviewing field where the entire division was drawn up. After presenting the division to the executive, General Foreman awarded the trophies to the organizations for excellence in performance of military duties and superiority in athletics.

Four of the cups went to the 129th infantry, commanded by Colonel Diller S. Myers of Pontiac. The 106th Cavalry commanded by Major H. W. Styles won a cup for presenting the neatest and most soldierly street, tents and pickets.

After the review, Governor Small lunched with Adjutant General Black, Colonel and Mrs. A. E. Hutchins and others. Later accompanied by General Black, he inspected the entire camp.

"We did not select even tentative locations for new buildings," General Black said. "The governor, however, wanted to look over the camp so he could visualize any portion of it when we do start to make additional improvements."

Immediately after noon-day mess, this tented city began to disappear. Tents were taken down, canvasses folded and roped and pup tents erected in their places. Troop trains will tomorrow leave here at 5 a. m. tomorrow with downed guardsmen to the first to embark. The last train carrying Chicago troops will leave at 10:30.

General Foreman gave a dinner tonight in honor of the governor and his staff organization commanders. The executive left immediately thereafter for Chicago.

Major Reed Landis, American "ace" during the war and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Plez of Chicago were among the visitors who called on General Foreman today.

NEW YORK REPORTER HAS LURID PIPE DREAM

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The 1,700 ton floating barge ship which was reported to be anchored beyond the 12 mile limit off New York and to have been the scene of hilarious drinking parties was admitted today to be a myth. The New York Herald-Tribune which first printed the news concerning the imaginary ship in a copyrighted article, will say tomorrow that the discovery was a reporter's dream and that the reporter has been dismissed from the staff of the newspaper.

STUDYING JURIES

What would men from Mars think of the American jury system? We may get an idea of that ultimately, when a Japanese commission now studying the system makes its report. The Japanese, to the ordinary American mind, are almost as distant as Martians, in geography and outlook. The Anglo-Saxon jury is a new thing to them, and they can view it with fresh minds.

What will they discover? Among many excellent things, perhaps these:

That often a jury openly thwarts justice, because one or two members out of a dozen do not agree with the rest. The Japanese may think it odd that unanimity must be required of a jury, in a political system where majorities rule in other matters, and in a legal system where a majority of judges suffices for a court decision.

They will discover that often a jury unanimously declares a prisoner innocent, for sentimental reasons, when every member of the jury knows he is guilty of the offense charged against him.

There are no new problems—just the same old problems masquerading in new forms.

Fascinated by the belief in our generation's importance, we imagine that our problem of traffic congestion is something new, the creation of our marvelous mechanical progress.

But ancient Rome had traffic problems equally acute, says Dr. Ashby, one of the chief diggers excavating Roman ruins. Chariot speed maniacs kept officials busy. Probably the future will be worried by traffic congestion in the air, planes swarming by millions.

THE BIG TOUR

Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Richards of Los Angeles are touring the world—really touring it. When they get thru, they expect to have seen this old earth with rare thoroughness. They have been at the job now for more than five years and have covered something over 216,000 miles. They intend to visit every country in the world and finish their tour in 1929.

If these travelers are not tired of it already, they will doubtless be very tired of it, indeed, before they get thru with their self-appointed task. Seldom are such weary folk seen as tourists who started out blithely to circle the world and who, on the homeward lap, drag themselves forth every day to see the sights in due order, long after the time for the end.

There is a mental as well as physical weariness and unwholesomeness about long-continued travel, to most people. And it is well for humanity that it is so, else there would be no homes and no stability.

"It is not good that anyone should voyage forever after things which are new," wrote Heywood Brown the other day in the New York World. "Such journeys must bring him into lonely places. Prolonged courage may swing the circle wide, but it is still a circle. The wheel turns even in the firmest hands. At the end the voyager comes home."

WHY YOU GET TIRED

BY ALBERT APPLE

Fatigue is largely a state of mind. Physical exhaustion is decidedly a secondary reason. Dr. Evans, distinguished medical man, makes this claim in a speech to the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

He has some ideas that will enable many people to get more work accomplished without "minding it."

The physical or bodily phase of fatigue, says Dr. Evans, is caused by accumulation of lactic acid in the muscles.

This chemical is what makes stiffness felt after the exercise of untrained muscles.

Use of trained muscles is not followed by stiffness, because the trained muscle has better circulation through it. This brings more oxygen to the muscles, and the lactic acid is removed by oxidation. That is to say, the lactic acid combines with oxygen and is carried away, the same as iron combines with the oxygen of air and produces rust.

You've had the experience of doing work you're not accustomed to—such as rowing a boat or chopping wood on vacation. Next day your muscles are filled with lactic acid and feel stiff. Keep up the hard work and soon your muscles are not stiff and aching the next day. Your blood has gotten in the habit of circulating through the muscles, formerly dormant or not used, and the lactic acid is oxidized and eliminated.

So, if a physical task seems hard, all that's needed to make it easy is to keep at it—"develop unused muscles."

Marvelous chemical machine, the human body.

The main cause of fatigue is a state of mind, Dr. Evans claims. By "state of mind" he apparently means monotony or lack of interest.

Lack of interest gives us a tired feeling even before we start a disagreeable or uninviting task.

Monotony usually is in a monotonous environment. No one is ever as tired as he thinks he is.

CUSTOMERS

Japan and China in a year have bought about 500 million dollars worth of our exports. Canada in the same time bought over 601 millions. Canada right now is a bigger customer than the Orient combined for Americans. Only one other country buys more American goods—United Kingdom.

Also we buy from Canada more than from any other country. Trade "across the line," buying and selling, exceeds a billion dollars a year. She's a good neighbor. And economically, she's bound to us closer than she is politically to England.

HIDDEN

Only one American family in every four has an income of $1,000 or more a year—if you believe the national income tax figures.

The latest of these statistics that are completely compiled cover 1922 and show that 6,385,405 admitted incomes of $1,000 or more during the year. It's estimated the average family has four and a half members—that is, nine members to every two families.

If the tax collector could get to the "hidden incomes," Uncle Sam could retire a big chunk of the national debt.

ESCAPED PRISONER IS TAKEN BY SHERIFF

Sid Adwell, Waverly, Lands in Jail After Altercation Which Results in His Arrest

Sid Adwell of Waverly who broke from the Morgan county jail a number of months ago is once more a prisoner in the county bastille as the result of a disturbance in which he figured in Waverly Thursday night.

State's Attorney Carl E. Robinson and Sheriff Wright have been on the lookout for Adwell, having learned he was back in the county and Deputy Henry Strawn went to Waverly and brought Adwell back to jail. His presence in Waverly was brought to the notice of county officials when they learned he had been arrested and fined in a justice court for engaging in a fist battle with Harvey Holland. Holland was also arrested and fined.

It will be remembered that Adwell caused considerable trouble in Waverly two years ago when he was alleged to have been drunk and was placed in the village jail. Sheriff Wright, then a deputy was then sent to Waverly and peace was restored and Adwell was brought to Jacksonville and lodged in jail.

He was placed under a $1,000 bond on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, but being unable to furnish the required amount was kept in jail until his escape about two years ago. It is said that for a time he lived in the neighborhood of Nilwood. He later went into Sangamon county and later came into Morgan.

It is reported that the old charge will be brought up against Adwell.

BURCHNELL SPENT LONG TIME IN A HOSPITAL

Following Attack of Malaria But Did Not Regain Lost Strength Until He Tried Tanlac.

"Since taking Tanlac I can speed up all day at the factory without even making a dent in my energy and then go home at quitting time happy and smiling," is the striking statement of James O. Burchnell, 714 Broadway, Muncie, Ind., a valued employee of a large steel and wire manufacturing company here.

"Following a three month's siege of malaria last fall that pulled my weight down from 142 pounds, to 96 pounds and laid me up in a hospital 52 days, I found Tanlac just the thing I needed to build me up.

"Tanlac brought back my appetite, set my stomach in order, stopped my aches and pains, restored my lost weight and strength and left me feeling as vigorous and energetic as if nothing had ever been the matter with me. And as for my health now, I never had better. I eat

STEERS RADIO MAST FOLIES THRU RAPIDS

Youth Builds Station in Montana Town After Fifteen Months of Work—Brings Fifty-Foot Timbers Thru Turbulent River.

Troy, Montana, Aug. 22.—The building of an amateur radio telegraph station in this little mountain town is no easy task as Frank W. Prince, youthful radio experimenter, discovered when he cut two fifty foot poles for an antenna mast and brought them five miles by river, part of which is a roaring rapids. The normal speed of the river is about twelve miles an hour so he had to run his motor boat at a fast rate to keep the heavy poles from ramming him.

More than fifteen months elapsed from the time he cut the poles until he could hoist the aerial. The roads in this part of the country are so full of turns that it was impossible to haul the poles and there was nothing left to do but take the more dangerous course and transport them all the way by water. The huge antenna mast now stands about 90 feet above the ground.

The complete station required many months of work and is regarded as one of the best in the northwest, despite the fact that Prince has had practically no opportunity to associate with other radio men and, with the exception of his own, has never seen another continuous wave amateur transmitter. He acquired all of his knowledge of radio from books and current radio magazines.

Now he can converse in code with scores of amateurs some of whom are as far away as 800 miles. "Many freak conditions are encountered here," he says. "All stations within 200 miles are very inconsistent while it is comparatively easy to raise Pacific coast stations or those in Idaho and Washington." He is a member of the American Radio Relay League and handles a great deal of the A. R. R. L. amateur message traffic in this section. His station call is TAGF.

The Circus of Life

THE AVALANCHE. By Ernest Poole. New York: The Macmillan Company. 1924. $2.00.

Reviewed by MARGARET K. MOORE

"I haven't been in New York very long, but it seems as if half the people I meet are either all or partly mad—under the strain of doing things that need never be done at all."

That sentence, spoken by the hero of "The Avalanche," remained in the mind of the reviewer, not only as revealing most clearly the character of the speaker, but also as giving the key-note to the book. Mr. Poole's treatment of his theme is calm and dispassionate; he is not preaching or passing judgment, but merely painting life as he sees it. One feels sure that he finds endless pleasure and interest in watching the "three-ring circus"—to quote Llewellyn Darr again—and that he is a keen and accurate observer. But he leaves us, in the closing chapters of the novel, with the conviction that the fortunate man is the one who has escaped from "the strain of doing things that need never be done at all."

The book is most thoroughly up-to-date. The scene is laid in New York City, with occasional excursions in the mountains of New England. The New York of which we read is not only that of our own generation, or even of the post-war period; it is the New York of our very year, with events of 1923, such as the visit of Cane to America, spoken of as already things of the past.

The subject matter of the story, as well as the setting, is thoroughly modern. Psycho-analysis has furnished material for numerous magazine and newspaper articles, and the theme for short stories. "The Avalanche" is one of the first attempts to treat it as the subject of a full-length novel.

Llewellyn Darr, a brilliant young neurologist, is called to treat Dorothea Farragut for a violent headache, brought on by her inability to decide how to answer the proposal of Tom McKane, editor of a great city newspaper. She is fully convinced of her author's desirability socially of his influence in the life of the city, and of their congeniality, but she is not sure of herself. Her life has been restless, full of adventure, always going from one new thing to another, and marriage, even with a man like McKane, does not promise sufficient thrills.

Darr is able to give her relief from the nervous state into which she has worried herself. The conversations between them in the course of the treatment serve to give us the necessary background for the knowledge of her character, as well as to make us feel the fascination of Darr's personality. The point of view which he reveals as to life in New York is to Dorothea novel and refreshing, and we are not surprised that she suddenly sees in him a fascinating new interest.

She has the natural instinct of the newspaper woman, the publicity agent, which since the end of the war has found no adequate object. Darr's work furnishes great possibilities; she determines to take him up and bring on him an "avalanche of popularity"—without consulting him as to his feelings in regard to such popularity as her methods would bring. The process of "taking up" expands until against the better judgment of the two chief characters and their friends it leads to a brief engagement and to marriage.

Then the tragic conflict, and the real interest of the story, begins. Dorothea launches at once the publicity campaign which brings the promised avalanche. The resulting success is of a kind, however, from which Darr's sensitive nature with his intense conviction of the real value of his work, shrinks more and more, and in which he finds it increasingly difficult to do his part.

The breach between the two widens, in spite of their passionate devotion to each other; the reader feels that the avalanche must inevitably bring ruin and desolation. The particular form of the catastrophe, however, is not revealed until the very last of the book, and the closing chapter leaves us with a feeling of content that would have seemed impossible a few pages earlier.

As would be expected in a novel having psycho-analysis as its theme, the main interest lies in the characters. There are two, besides Dorothea and Llewellyn, in whom our interest centers—Tom McKane and the elder Mrs. Darr. McKane is a man of wide acquaintance with the world, in which he has been successful socially and financially; he is apparently broad-minded and generous, but really cold and calculating throughout.

Mrs. Darr is in entire contrast with all the other characters, even her son. Brought up in a strict New England atmosphere, she has revolted against her early religious training, as the well-read novelist of today can hardly fail to make his characters do. The manner of her revolt, however, is not entirely in accordance with the superficial, conventional treatment of the ordinary storyteller; with her it has resulted not in atheism, nor in pleasure seeking, but in devotion to science as the only sure source of knowledge, and in blind materialism.

This materialism is, in the son, offset by a deep mysticism, a legacy through his father from far-off Celtic ancestors. The struggle between the two elements in Darr's character furnishes one of the most interesting points in the revealing of his personality. Our satisfaction in the closing chapter of the book rises largely from the fact that it is the mystic who conquers.

Mr. Poole writes thoughtfully of the work of the neurologist, and of the various reactions of those who read of such work and its possibilities. To some, the psycho-analyst appears as a quack to some as a miracle man to a very few, as a sane, normal scientist who is quietly working to bring healing to mind and body. It is at this point that we find whatever real contribution the author has to make to the literature of psycho-analysis; for do not the great majority of readers derive their knowledge of the subject from the same kind of newspaper advertising that Llewellyn Darr so heartily deplores?

So many phases of modern life are touched upon in the course of the novel that at times in reading, one feels the strain which Darr characterizes as the result of doing things that need never be done at all. There are places which strike one as overdrawn, particularly in the treatment of the character of Dorothea herself. Yet "The Avalanche" is extremely well written, and whether or not we agree with its point of view, we can at least read it to the end with unabated interest.

On Photography

THE AMERICAN ANNUAL OF PHOTOGRAPHY, 1924. Edited by Percy W. Howe. New York: The American Annual of Photography, Inc. 1923. $1.75.

The amateur camera-snapper, as well as the skilled professional, can find much of value and interest in this, the thirty-eighth, annual volume on American photography. In fact, as the editor states in his preface, photography has at last reached a position where we can truthfully say that it has a place in all our lives, whether we are actively engaged in it or not.

Contributors to the present volume include many of the leading photographers here and abroad. The contributed papers cover almost every branch of photographic activity, as witness a few of the headings: Hand Work in Photography, Modification of the Printing Developer, Three-Color Carbo, Expression in Portraiture, Getting Everything in Focus, Taking Figures Unaware, Photography of the Nude, Studying the Child, The Telephoto Lens, Soft Pictures From Sharp Negatives, Moonlight Photography, Travel and the Camera, Some American Shrines, and Notes on Mountain Photography.

The frequent illustrations, which form a representative collection of the best work of the year, are of greater interest than the articles themselves. They are of considerable value, too, as far as composition is concerned, for one learns by example more readily than by precept. These pictures vary in theme from nude women to Sanish mission houses, and in setting from Park Row, New York to the Yoshida temple at Kyoto. Judging from the printed reproductions, these photographs which the reviewer would be most proud to have made are "The Crucifix" and "Wanderers From Home."

FIFTY-DOLLAR PRIZE OFFERED FOR BALLAD

To create new interest in the ballad, a prize of fifty dollars has been offered through the American section of the Poetry Society of London by Mrs. Jeanne Robert Foster, American editor of The Transatlantic Review.

The contest for the Foster Ballad Prize is to be conducted at the same time as the Star Poem Contest for the fifty dollars offered by the blind poet, Miss Evelyn M. Watson, and the Music Poem Contest, for the fifty dollars offered by Mrs. Florence Parr-Gere, the American composer-pianist, and is to be open to all without restrictions, closing December 15, 1924.

All entries must be sent, as before, to Mrs. Alice Hunt Bartlett, American editor, Poetry Review, 27 West Sixty-seventh street, New York City.

SHAKESPEARE PLAYS POPULAR IN GERMANY

Shakespeare is more popular in Germany than in England, according to the German association of theatrical managers. During 1923, the association points out, Shakespeare was produced in the German republic 2,917 times, which included "The Merchant of Venice" 247 times and "Othello" 207 times.

BOOKFELLOW CIRCLE TO ORGANIZE HERE

Jacksonville Members of Order to Meet at Library Next Monday Evening

Jacksonville members of the Order of Bookfellow will meet at the public library next Monday evening at 7:30 for the purpose of organizing a local Circle. Notice of the meeting has been issued, after consultation with the librarian, by a committee consisting of John Kearns, Anne Wakely Jackson, and Wayne Gard.

The objects of the local organization will be (1) to study contemporary literature, (2) to cooperate with the Journal in the publication of its Saturday book page, and (3) to encourage the development of literary talent in the community. Regular meetings will be held at the public library. Much of the material prepared by members will serve a double purpose, being first read before a Bookfellow meeting, and later published in the Journal's book page.

The Order of Bookfellow is an international association of readers and writers, founded five years ago, with headquarters at Chicago. The organization publishes, non-commercially, books and brochures in limited editions, with the object of furthering the production of good literature in beautiful dress at reasonable prices, and issues The Step Ladder, a monthly journal of booky ascent. The annual feast of the Bookfellow is held in Chicago in May.

An indication of the importance of the Order is found in the names appearing on the Advisory Board. This body is made up of authors and critics of the highest rank in the English-speaking world. They are: Hamlin Garland, chairman, Edwin Arlington Robinson, Frederick Starr, John G. Neihardt, James Branch Cabell, Herbert Quick, Henry Seidel Canby, Clara Louise Burnham, Lorado Taft, George Sterling, Katherine Lee Bates, Curtis Hidden Page, Carl Van Doren, Irving Bacheller, Edwin Markham, Richard Burton, John Erskine, Hugh Walpole, and Emerson Hough, (deceased).

George Steele Seymour, one of the founders of the Order of Bookfellow, who has contributed several times to the Journal's book page, is being asked to come to Jacksonville at an early date to deliver a lecture on contemporary literature. The Library Board already has granted the use of the public library for this purpose. It is hoped that during the coming winter the local Circle may bring to Jacksonville for a lecture along similar lines Professor John T. Frederick of the University of Iowa, who is editor of The Midland.

Not only Bookfellow members but also all other Jacksonville residents who are interested in contemporary literature are invited to the meeting at the library Monday evening. Bookfellow members in Jacksonville, not counting several who have dropped out, include the following: Hazel Dell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Elliott, Wayne Gard, Anne Wakely Jackson, Edith Jordan, John Kearns, Audrey King, Margaret King Moore, Beatrice Teague, N. B. Thompson, and Alice Williams.

BOOKS

My neighbor's books sit primly in a row— Dickens in blue, and Thackeray in red.

Like Orphans dressed in their asylum gowns, With only numbers to distinguish them;

And, like the Orphans, they are coldly clean; No dog-eared pages there—no pencil marks;

Even the dust is kept from them by glass; And there they sit, encloistered and aloof.

My books are not like that; they are my friends; They share my sorrow and they share my joy—

Live as I live, and show their age, like me; Here's one who covers faded the sun—

It shared my holiday along the shore; This one companions me at breakfast time.

Each morning as I take my hasty meal, And gives me courage for the day's despite, (It's rather spotty, true; but, ah, so dear!)

And each one has its own distinctive dress; A set of poets? Never.

Imagine them attired in uniform. My Keats wears purple, and my Poe wears gray;

And both are marked with many pencilings, And open at my favorite passages

With sweet garrulity. You lonely books Upon my neighbor's shelves, I pity you.

FLORENCE VAN CLEVE New York Times

Houghton Mifflin announces for publication on August 29 a story of "love versus favour," by Anne Douglas Sedgwick. The title is "The Little French Girl."

THE WIND

The wind came in and kissed me—
Just lightly brushed my lips
With softest of caresses,
Like fairy finger-tips.

O Wind, your merry wooing,
So debonair and kind,
Brought healing to my spirit,
Peace to my troubled mind.

The robin in the garden
Was not more dithy and gay
Than you, O roving lover,
Who kissed my lips today.

The wind came in and kissed me
When I was sad and ill,
Though but a moment with me,
His memory lingers still.

Militant Essays

AN AMERICAN LOOKS AT HIS WORLD. By Glenn Frank. University of Delaware Press. 1923. $3.

Reviewed by HAZEL DELL

The predominant element in many modern critical essays is an elaboration of the idea, "Whatever is, is wrong." But, although the status quo is violently assailed, the critic fails to attack the fundamental aspect of the problem or to suggest a remedy for the evil he sees. The reader consequently feels as if he has been thrust into a trail boat and pushed into the middle of a stormy sea, without food or water, oars or compass. All is blackness—he is unable to discover in which direction safety lies.

Mr. Frank, however, has a different standard of criticism. He is neither a fiery radical nor a staid conservative. His point of view is fresh and his manner of presenting his ideas is unique. His purpose is to provoke the American people to a more analytical and thoughtful attitude toward modern problems.

America is surveyed not from the solitude of a lofty mountain top but from points of direct contact with life. These essays are not a eulogy of America; nor are they a wholesale condemnation. The author sees praiseworthy qualities as well as evils in American life. He seeks to indicate the danger zones, and to offer concrete suggestions toward progress.

His ideas are stripped of dogma and traditional beliefs. Yet he does not ruthlessly discard the heritage of the past without examining it carefully, in order to determine what foundations are there for a better future. In this respect he shows himself a true critic of life. He does not tender his suggestions with the thought that they are ideal. They are merely tentative, with the primary purpose of challenging the reader's mind.

Mr. Frank concerns himself with problems in politics, religion, journalism, education, labor, and international relations. The reader finds in each essay a sane, balanced analysis of existing conditions and a concrete suggestion for reform, evinced by the spark of practical imagination.

The suggestions are practical because the new is built upon the old and because use is made of material at hand. Thus, in discussing the problem of national health, the author suggests that we face the issue scientifically and organize an army of health doctors, distributed according to the public need. The primary work of these doctors would be the prevention of sickness and disease.

"We have the raw materials of such an organization at hand," he says. "Thousands of doctors are now servants of the state or are in semi-public work as municipal health officers, school physicians, factory and mine inspectors, and the like. But all this is uncoordinated and falls far short of its possibility. Let us have a national General Staff for Health. Let this general staff organize the war on disease and perfect the organization of an army of health advisers."

The author realizes the value of intelligent public opinion in the conduct of national affairs; the creation of the best type of public opinion is one of his primary concerns. In fact, this seems to be at the bottom of each of the proposals he makes. To stir the mind of the colleges as well as the mind of Main Street in his ideal. If he can arouse others to think about, and to discuss, the problems of the day, he will have done much toward creating a higher type of public opinion.

The social element is another prominent feature in Mr. Frank's suggestions for change. It is predominant in his statements concerning educational ideals and also in his discussion of the purpose America is to serve. He is interested in making a better nation in order that she may take her place in international affairs, for she cannot isolate herself completely. For this reason her problems must be met by intelligent, trained men.

The author effectively indicates also the need for inculcating the principles of Christianity into all phases of life. He is not concerned about theology, for there is a surplus of that in the world. It is the essence of Christianity—the spirit of good will and brotherhood—that interests him.

The titles of the essays capture the reader's attention, and the opening sentences stimulate his interest. After that, the clear, convincing reasoning, the original ideas, the fresh point of view, and the enthusiastic spirit of the writer carry him on. Yet one does not feel that any concession is made to the popular demand for flashy revolutionary literature. The essays are revolutionary, but they are also constructive in every way. They seek to create in the minds of the American people a desire for a world that will be guided intelligently and sanely, and to outline some basis for the discussion of its problems.

There is a freshness and uniqueness in the figurative language that is almost indefinable, but it conveys a sense of the author's earnestness and enthusiasm. The non-partisan and analytical spirit displayed throughout is another noteworthy feature. Mr. Frank has the ability to view in an unbiased way every aspect of a problem, and to present the strong points of a situation. He goes swiftly and surely to the root of the problem and makes that the basis of his attack.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR CENTENNIAL HISTORY

In anticipation of the coming centennial of Jacksonville in 1925 the Public Library Board and interested friends are offering three prizes for the best histories of Jacksonville, submitted not later than February 28, 1925. The prizes will be $100, $50 and $25, respectively.

Death of Well Known Resident Occurs Last Night After Short Illness

The death of Mrs. Percy V. Coover occurred last night at 12:45 o'clock at the family residence, 715 South East street. Mrs. Coover's death will come as a surprise to her many friends as she had been ill but two days.

A more extended obituary notice will be given later.

MRS. MORS' BODY SENT TO NEW YORK

LOS ANGELES, Cal. Aug. 22. (AP)—No curious throng annoyed the undertaker's assistants who today removed the body of Mrs. Theresa Mors, shot to death here August 12, from the mortuary where it has laid since the day after the killing to the baggage car of a train bound for New York, the home of the dead woman's mother.

There were no flowers and Albert A. Mors, former husband of the shooting victim, and heir to her $125,000 estate, was not to be seen.

At the county jail Kid McCoy, ex-pugilist charged with the murder, wept as he told women interviewers of his love for the departing dead, collapsed as doctors subjected him to blood tests, or slouched sullenly in a corner of his cell, disheveled, morose, unkempt.

WAVERLY

Waverly, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Glenn Smedley was the happy victim of a surprise miscellaneous shower recently given by the members of the World Wide Guild of the Baptist church. Mr. and Mrs. Smedley had just gone to housekeeping on West Temple street, and the shower was in view of that fact. A delightful social hour was spent followed by the serving of ice cream and cake.

The Baptist Sunday school enjoyed an all day picnic Thursday of last week at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Schreiber, north of town. A happy day was spent by old and young.

Misses Ethel and Lura Allen have gone on a trip to Niagara Falls, and will also visit other places of interest on the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bastian have returned to their home in Peoria, after a visit at the home of Mrs. Mary Cook.

Mrs. Bertha Miller has returned home from Urbana, where she had been attending summer school for several weeks.

Miss Minnie Welchman, who is taking nurse's training at Passavant hospital at Jacksonville has been spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Welchman.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Riggs and family visited one day last week with Mrs. Riggs mother, Mrs. Jane Mitchell.

Miss Marie Schrieber who works in Pekin is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Schrieber.

Mrs. L. D. Day of Kahokia, Mo., came last week for a visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. Newton Cloud, and brother, Samuel Weller.

Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Crum were visitors in Urbana at the home of the former's brother, Ferris Crum.

SPOON RIVER DROPS

Galesburg, Ill., Aug. 22.—Spoon River had fallen six feet at London Mills on the Knox-Fulton county line late this afternoon following the flood yesterday in which water reached the highest mark in the history of the river at that point. More than 200 feet of track on the Burlington and Quincy railway washed out.

Water covers part of the town of Ashland and many families there are still homeless.

Flood today struck points farther down the river, damaging Fulton county property similar to that done in Knox county yesterday.

POPE PIUS TO SEN

ROME, Aug. 22.—Pope Pius intends to carry out the intention announced by the late Pope Benedict of presenting to the chapel of the Catholic University of Washington, D. C., a picture of the Immaculate Conception, executed in the mosaic work of the vatican.

The present pope chose as the model for the mosaic work the picture of the Immaculate Conception now in the Prado gallery of Madrid and known as "the purest fair one."

POPE OVERSEES

ROME, Aug. 22.—Pope Pius is actively overseeing all the work of repairs and decorations now under way at the vatican in preparation for the holy year.

Among these repairs is the entire repavement of the Hall of Benedictions which overlooks the portico of St. Peter's. The work, which has been personally supervised by the pontiff, is now nearly complete. It is being carried on by workmen who are members of families which have found regular employment of this sort in the vatican for generations.

MANCHESTER

Manchester, Aug. 22.—A petition is being circulated for the calling of a third election to vote upon a high school building. State school officials have promised that if the voters signify their intention to put up a building in the future they will permit the high school to be carried on this year in the old building. This would enable some fifty students to continue in high school here, rather than having the school board pay their tuition and transportation elsewhere. Let every voter come out and vote for a building, so that our young people may be kept at home. Nothing could happen to the community which would so impoverish it, as the loss of a high school here.

Miss May Greenwalt spent last week at the country home of Mrs. Kirby Tankersley.

Miss May Robson is relieving Miss Mabel Greenwalt of her telephone work this week, while the latter takes her vacation.

Manchester is in the throes of the hottest weather of the summer. After the ideal coolness which has prevailed for the past week or two, it is doubly hard to bear.

Gustav Zastrow, representing the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, Chicago, was calling Saturday on Mrs. George A. Sloan and others interested along the lines of child welfare. Mr. Zastrow expects to return some time this fall and give a lecture on child welfare. His lecture will be illustrated with appropriate stereoscopic slides. He hopes to establish both a boy scout and girls' camp-fire organization here.

Enthusiastic Sabbath school services Sunday morning at 9:30 at the Christian church. All are cordially invited.

Gardens both vegetable and flower, are flourishing here despite the recent heat. Tomatoes are particularly fine and abundant.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Seymour of Franklin motored down to bring Mrs. Carrie Pope home and visited at the home of Terry Howard. They were joined by Mrs. Pope's son, Howard Pope and wife of Springfield, and all spent Sunday together. Miss Ruby Dean returned to Springfield with the Pops in the evening.

Miss Eliza Strong Andrus is visiting her aunt, Mrs. E. G. Saye in Jacksonville.

Mrs. J. N. Massey and little daughter, Virginia, are spending this week in Mason City, Ill., with their daughter, Mrs. Wayne Williams.

Remember the Burgoe and Fish Fry on Aug. 27, by the Woodmen and their auxiliary, the R. N. of A. Lodge.

The Rev. Morgan and family and several of his parishioners, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. Etta Hawkins, Mrs. Curtis Kelly attended on Wednesday, the Sandy Creek Baptist association, being held this week in White Hall.

Mrs. Ethel Rousey is clerking this week in the Charles Smith store.

Mrs. Emily Hayes on Sunday entertained her daughter, Mrs. James Overton and family of Winchester, also E. A. Leach and family of Winchester.

Ed Walker is reported to have been thrown from his wagon on Wednesday and seriously hurt. He was starting to work and while yet near his house was found unconscious in the road, the team running to Centrick Andrus' gate. Mr. Walker improved in a little while, but can remember nothing which happened, nor how he came to be hurt. He is able to be around the house though feeling badly.

PRINCE OF WALES

IS BUSY PACKING

LONDON, Aug. 22. (AP)—The Prince of Wales spent an uncommonly busy day packing his personal belongings for his second trip to the United States and receiving many of his intimate friends who called to wish him "bon voyage."

At 10 o'clock this morning he suddenly found it necessary to make purchases of various essential traveling articles. He dashed into Piccadilly driving his own little two seated motor car and rushed up to a sedate little leather store. He started the employees hurriedly asking for the manager and exclaiming: "I'm in a terrible hurry. I want some more cases to pack my things in." Then he drove to St. James Palace to resume his packing.

LOUISIANA SHERIFF MURDERED BY NEGROES

Shreveport, La., Aug. 22.—Sheriff E. M. Reulitz of Jackson parish was murdered at Ansley, La., by three negroes whom he had arrested in a raid on a moonshine still shortly before midnight Friday. The negroes after overpowering the sheriff shot him with his own gun and made their escape. Poses composed of several hundred citizens are searching the roads for the slayers.

TODAY IS LAST FOR QUALIFYING IN GOLF

Rounds Will Close This Evening and Match Play Start Tomorrow Morning—Twenty More Enter Lists

Today is the last date set for playing off qualifying scores for the city championship golf tournament and it is urged that all players who have not yet played their qualifying round should do so early this morning so that their score will be in the case a storm should suspend play. The positive time for qualifying closes at 6 o'clock this evening and play for all flights will start Sunday morning and will close Wednesday evening, August 27th.

The flights will be made up this evening and will be published in Sunday's Journal, and will also be posted at No. 1 tee by 7 o'clock tomorrow morning. When matches are announced by the committee players will proceed to arrange at once with their opponents for play, and all matches should be played off as soon as possible as bad weather might interfere with the play.

The following players have qualified since last report: Cully, 116; F. L. Gregory, 118; Erving, 105; Campbell, 105; J. G. Reynolds, 113; Hedger, 110; Lee Davis, 103; Thurman, 101; W. D. WABASH

Billy Evans SAYS

"Take your time."

In recent years that has become a big league slogan, particularly as to pitching.

A majority of major league managers have been working on the theory that the pitcher who works slowly is certain to be the more successful.

Yet it is an easy matter to offer proof directly to the contrary.

The theory of the "take-your-time" system on the part of the pitcher is that the delay upsets the batter, throws him off his stride.

Working on the batter through dilatory methods is possible in many ways.

First the pitcher, after rubbing the ball with his hands, walks around the rubber before getting on same, preliminary to receiving the signals.

After the pitcher gets on the rubber, the catcher gets in his "dirty work" by being very tardy in giving the signal for the pitch.

In the meantime the batsman, standing in the box, is in anything but a pleasant state of mind. He fuses over the delay, which is the very thing of the tardy methods.

In adopting such tactics the managers have entirely overlooked the feelings of the public.

The baseball fans like action and never have approved of dilatory methods on the ball field.

In the American League, games were dragged to such an extent that President Johnson took the matter into his own hands.

American League pitchers must now take the balls while standing on the rubber, in a position to deliver the ball to the batsman.

This eliminates the many minutes lost through the pitcher parading around the rubber between each pitch. Incidentally he cannot go the ground and soil the ball.

Failure of the pitcher to observe such a system calls for his expulsion from the game.

Since President Johnson put his ultimatum into effect American League games have been speeded up from 15 to 20 minutes.

Managers, in an effort to throw the batter off his stride by slow tactics, seem to have overlooked the fact such methods have the same effect on his fielders.

It is a well-known fact that the fielding is invariably better back of a fast-working pitcher. The fielders seem to absorb the "pepper" of the pitcher.

One need only look over the records to get the proof that the greatest pitchers are almost always fast-working twirlers.

The great Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, in fact a great majority of the outstanding pitchers of the game are fast-working.

Looks as if the managers have been "booting" one from several angles with the "take-your-time" theory.

HERE'S AN ALL-STAR STAFF OF RIGHT SMART HURLERS

SOME OF GAME'S GREATEST PITCHERS HAVE ONLY FAIR STUFF

THINKERS

Dauss Smith Thurston Shocker Rommel Mogridge Ehmke Penneck

BY BILLY EVANS

In baseball the term "smart pitcher" is applied to the twirler who uses his head as well as his arm.

A smart pitcher does not necessarily have the most ability. In a great many cases it is lack of stuff that causes him to resort to strategy.

Pitchers with much natural ability usually depend entirely on their stuff to get them by. Often such pitchers do not resort to headwork until the arm starts to give way under the strain.

Walter Johnson and Grover Cleveland Alexander, two of the greatest pitchers of all time, frankly confess they never gave much thought to brain stuff until they first suffered a lame arm.

Of the present-day crop of pitchers in the major leagues, Urban Shocker of the St. Louis Browns is generally conceded to be the craftiest.

Here is the all-star "gray matter" pitching staff of the American League:

Chicago White Sox—Hollis Thurston.
Cleveland Indians—Sherry Smith.
Washington Nationals—George Mogridge.

New York Yankees—Herb Pennock.
Philadelphia Athletics—Ed Rommel.
Detroit Tigers—George Dauss.
Boston Red Sox—Howard Ehmke.

While every successful major league pitcher must use his head as well as his arm, these eight pitchers stand out.

Walter Johnson, perhaps the greatest pitcher of all time, now goes in strongly for the smart stuff. Once upon a time Walter simply threw the ball by the batter.

He worked on the theory that you couldn't hit what you couldn't see.

Today Walter Johnson is rated one of the wisest pitchers in the game. When his arm wavered he called on his brain for reserve power.

In selecting these eight smart pitchers, natural ability has been put in the background to a certain extent. There are any number of right-handers in the American League who have more stuff than Hollis Thurston and plenty of left-handers with more natural ability than George Mogridge.

"The wise pitcher of today is the fellow who uses his head no matter how much stuff he has," says the great Walter Johnson.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—The Athletics made it two games out of three in their series with the St. Louis Americans slugging the offerings of four pitchers today for a 13 to 6 victory. Seven runs were scored by the locals in the first inning off Davis, Lyons and Pruett. Rommel pitching for Philadelphia eased up in the last inning and yielded five runs.

No Nut Cracker

DOG-DAY STUFF

If you feel that you just must go to the bow-wows, now is the fashionable time to do it.

No nervous wreck can get any consolation out of the knowledge that a soprano-singing hound never plants his teeth in your tibia bone.

If she says "Love me, love my dog," don't start to flee. The dog may misinterpret your intention.

A dog has a lot of fine traits that a man might well adopt. But growling isn't one of them.

Don't come home after a long day at the office and blurt out, "I'm living a dog's life." Even the little woman must get tired hearing you brag.

Turn about is noble sport. . . . Take the scoots riding in your limousine and the cans to the tails of the aristocratic chows.

Mr. O'Goofy understands that the canine family is very fond of bones. . . . "Well, I've got a new pair and I'll fade the lads for any amount."

Quit complaining about your puppies. . . . If they hurt, get a larger size.

Be charitable in your remarks to hot dogs. . . . Who knows but some day you may have a bun on, too.

No watch dog will ever be really valuable until he learns the difference between your bootlegger and the guy that reads the gas meter.

Fashion note: For dog days, stump-speaking politicians will wear non-removable steel muzzles and oblige the country at large.

MANY GAMES AHEAD FOR HOSPITAL TEAM

Manager, Burl May of the State hospital team believes in keeping things moving in the baseball line, according to reports of games arranged with the hospital boys and of others which are now cooking for future use.

As the institution lads have suffered but one setback, that received from Harts last Sunday by the close score of 11 to 10, May now feels that they are willing to tackle any organization who cares to give battle. This afternoon 3 o'clock the Alexander team will play against them on the hospital diamond, and Sunday afternoon the State team will tackle Franklin in their own home town.

Wednesday they will attend the I. O. O. F. picnic at Lynnville and meet the Lynnville team in battle while there. One week from Sunday the local boys will show their confidence by going against the fast State Garage team of Springfield here. This club is reported to be one of the best in Springfield among the semi-pro class. The public is invited to attend all games played by the State team.

One hard-hit ball that stays in the courts is worth a flock of geese. . . . One who makes ghastly dents in the wire netting. . . . Overhitting is the outgrowth of temptation. . . . Learn not to expect an ace on every shot and this temptation to kill the ball all the time will disappear.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 22.—Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis Cardinal second baseman poked his 19th homer of the season off Nehf in the first inning of today's game with the Giants with one on base.

Hornsby who had hit safely in nine consecutive times at bat lost his chance to equal or exceed the world's record of 11 consecutive hits by grounding to the pitcher in the third inning today and being thrown out at first.

TO HOLD CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS SEPT. 17

The Civil Service Commission invites special attention to the fact that in examinations held recently in Jacksonville, and other cities throughout the United States for positions of physiotherapy pupil aide in the Veterans Bureau, and principal of home economics in the Indian Service, applicants were not secured in the number desired, and that these examinations will be held again on September 17.

Persons interested in these or other examinations should apply to secretary of the United States Civil Service Board at the local post office for detailed information and application blanks.

OPINION GIVEN ON MOOTED QUESTION

Brooklyn Paper Quotes Authority on Rules—Question Raised on Jacksonville Municipal Course.

There has been a considerable amount of discussion among players on the Jacksonville municipal course of the penalty "use of bounds both from the tee and thru the green." As a result of this discussion a local play wrote to an officer of the U. G. A. association, asking for opinion.

The letter, signed by the initials "M. R." and the answer from the club, are printed in a recent issue of the Brooklyn Times over the signature of William Everett Hicks, well known authority in golf affairs.

Opinion is Given

And still the golf question comes from distant places. The letter is from Jacksonville, and relates to the penalty for out of bounds, both from the tee and thru the green. The ambiguity attaching to those situations arises out of the fact that when the rule was revised in 1920 the out of bounds penalty was not settled finally, but was left to the option of clubs, as the revising committee from this country and Great Britain did not seem to be able to get together on the question.

This is the Jacksonville query. Dear Sir: On Saturday, August 2, there was a match on our municipal links in which a question came up that has caused much argument. Although the U. S. A. Rules seem very clear to me, one of the players cannot get thru his head. The point is this:

He drove a ball off a tee, getting a good drive, and on his second shot, he went out of bounds. He dropped a ball at the point from which he made his second shot and claims he is shooting his third shot. I claim he was shooting his fourth. Who is correct?

Another instance. If a ball driven from the tee and goes out of bounds, how many strokes will have been played after the second ball is driven from the tee? There is no local rule to govern this, but U. S. G. A. rules apply.

M. R.

Going back to the revisional meeting of the rules solons in Britain in 1920, one may call attention to the desire of the hatmonsters to have the same penalty for out of bounds, lost ball and unplayed lie. In those cases it was decided to make it stroke and distance, but, as it was felt in some quarters that that would be too heavy a penalty for out of bounds, permission was given to clubs to waive the stroke penalty and make it merely loss of distance by a local rule.

But where no such local rule was posted, the regular penalty of stroke and distance would have to be enforced. By the phrase "stroke and distance" is meant merely that playing the second ball, whether on the tee or thru the green, the player adds a penalty stroke. Where the penalty is only "distance," naturally the stroke penalty is omitted.

In the Jacksonville case the player after putting his second shot out of bounds and playing another was playing 4, and M. R. was right. The count would be one for the drive, one for the short out of bounds, one for the penalty stroke, a total of 3. Consequently, on the ball he dropped he would necessarily be playing 4 provided there was no local rule barring the penalty stroke, and the above letter says that U. S. G. A. rules applied. After driving out of bounds on the tee, the player under strict U. S. G. A. rules would be playing 3 on the dropped ball. Most clubs now make the out of bounds penalty distance only, or play 2 on the next tee ball.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 22.—Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis Cardinal second baseman poked his 19th homer of the season off Nehf in the first inning of today's game with the Giants with one on base.

Hornsby who had hit safely in nine consecutive times at bat lost his chance to equal or exceed the world's record of 11 consecutive hits by grounding to the pitcher in the third inning today and being thrown out at first.

TYGERS REDUCE LEAD OF AMERICAN CHAMPS

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Detroit reduced New York's lead in the American League race here today, winning a hard fought 11 inning game from the world's champions by a score of 8 to 6. Detroit won in the twelfth when Heinman singled and scored on O'Rourke's triple line drive poorly played by Witt. O'Rourke then stole home.

Score:
Detroit . . . 100 030 020 002—8 13 4
N. York . . . 030 002 100 000—6 15 2

FORMER I. C. STUDENT WINS POINTS AT CUSTER

A letter has been received from one of the officers at Camp Custer, Mich., stating that in the annual track and field day held at the camp Thursday, Howard Frazer, of Springfield, and a former student at Illinois College, won four of the thirty two points taken by the First Regiment to which Mr. Frazer is assigned, by taking first place in the 440 yard dash in 58.2-5 seconds on a soggy track, and by placing third in the half mile run. The meet was won by the Third Regiment with 59 1-4 points with a total of 32. Altogether there were more than three hundred men participated in the different events.

Market Report

By The Associated PressHOT WEATHER BRINGS
CORN PRICE SETBACK

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Sharp
new setbacks in the price of corn resulted today from a rush of selling due to hot weather favorable for the growing crop. The closing in the corn market was nervous 1 1/2 to 3 1/2c lower. December 1.08 1/2 to 1.08 3/4 with wheat unsettled 3c to 1 1/2c down.
September 1.25 1/2 to 1.25 1/2 and
December 1.30 1/2 to 1.30 3/4, oats
1 1/2 to 2 1/2c and provisions showing 5c to 20c decline.

It appeared to be a generally accepted opinion that rapid advancement of the corn crop would result from the prevailing high temperatures. The tenor of crop reports coming in was much more hopeful than has been the rule of late and although the market scored numerous rallies, none proved to be of lasting character. Lowest prices of the day were reached just before the close and were about 12c under Monday's top level.

A big share of the corn selling came from standing instructions to unload at definite limits in order to stop loss, the weakness of the market having necessitated heavy calls for margins. On the other hand some recent sellers were reinstating their lines asserting that the break in values had gone far enough and that six weeks of good weather without frost is needed if the bulk of the crop is to mature.

Wheat proved responsive to corn weakness, although liberal export business gave wheat prices numerous transient upturns.

Receipts of wheat, however, acted as a weight on values and so too did more favorable advices regarding the Canadian crop outlook. Prospective increase of domestic spring wheat marketings counted too as a bearish factor.

Indications of a rapid increase of stocks of oats tended to unsettle the oats market. The provision market sagged with grain.

LARGEST AUDIENCE ATTENDS CHAUTAUQUA

Crowd of 5,000 or More Witnessed Play, "Give and Take" Last Night—Heavy Traffic Handled in Fine Shape

The largest audience and the largest number of cars yet seen on the chautauqua grounds this season assembled last night. The audience of at least 5,000 people filled and overflowed the big tent. Every available chair was taken, and the crowd extended far beyond the canvas top.

The thousand or more cars that crossed the bridge were handled with excellent efficiency by the park traffic squad. No accidents were reported, though the traffic was the heaviest ever handled in the park and along the roads and streets leading to it.

The play, "Give and Take" proved a popular hit with the big audience. The players, six in number, arrived here only with difficulty. When they reached Vermont, Ill., about noon yesterday they found that they could not get to Jacksonville by the regular train route in time for their evening performance. They hired a truck to bring their heavy scenery and themselves to this city. Owing to recent floods, some of their equipment was delayed in shipment, and 20,000 programs which they expected to distribute to the audience never reached the city.

The taking of ticket pledges for the 1925 chautauqua is going forward well, though more than a thousand remain to be subscribed. Rev. W. E. Spooner who made the announcement last night concerning the pledges, also stated that the chautauqua management wanted it understood that it had nothing to do with the burning of the cross, which took place last Wednesday night near the grounds. He denied the report that deputies hired to police the grounds had been concerned in the matter.

Only two days more of the chautauqua remain, and heavy crowds are expected during the remaining sessions. Following is the balance of the chautauqua program:

Saturday, Aug. 23

10:30—Radio, announcement of day's radio program.

11:00—Lecture, Dr. Winrod.

2:15—Concert, DeSelle-Folsom Operatic party.

2:45—Entertainment, Children's Circus; a feature de luxe for the little folks.

7:45—Grand concert, DeSelle-Folsom Operatic party.

Sunday, Aug. 24

10:00—Sunday school, Charles L. Mathis, superintendent.

11:00—Song service, quartette music; vocal solo, Mr. Garnett Hedge.

11:15—Sermon, Dr. Winrod.

2:15—Concert, Community band.

2:45—Solo, Mr. Garnett Hedge.

3:00—Lecture, William Mather Lewis, of Washington, D. C., president of George Washington university, "Human Capital."

7:30—Concert, Community band.

8:00—Lecture, United States Senator Simon D. Fess; song, closing assembly, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds"; flag ceremonial, by Boy Scout troop, 7 a. m., and 7 p. m., each day.

Business Meeting

The annual meeting of the Jacksonville Chautauqua association and board of directors was held yesterday afternoon following the regular chautauqua session in the big tent. The three directors whose terms expired, A. C. Rice, J. W. Merrigan and Mrs. J. H. Danskin, were re-elected unanimously.

On motion of Carl Weber, the directors went on record in a vote of appreciation to S. W. Nichols for the beautiful park in which the chautauqua meets. At the evening session, the manager, H. H. Bancroft, seeing Mr. Nichols in the audience, asked him to stand, while the big audience gave him a rousing chautauqua salute.

The Boggs-Bailey Company, children entertainers, were heard yesterday afternoon at the chautauqua and their hour and a quarter program pleased a large audience.

MAKING TEST IN ROAD OILING

Experiments on Bloomington-Decatur Road are Under Supervision of State Engineers.

The Bloomington Pantagraph tells about an interesting road oiling test that is being made in McLean county to determine relative values of oil and the best methods for handling oiled roads.

An interesting test in road oiling has been completed by the state highway department on the east and west road, directly east from Wapella, beginning at the turn north on the Bloomington-Decatur road and continuing east four miles. The test road includes 22 sections of 1,000 feet each, all applied according to specification.

Two grades of oil were used, the E2, which is a medium oil, and the E3, which is a heavy oil, with one section of extra-heavy E3 oil.

"Five cars of oil were donated for the test purposes by various companies. The roadbed is standard, no additional grading and work being the same as any other county road. This particular road was chosen for the application of the test oil because of its location, being a road that is used as heavily as any road in the county. As a result of the heavy hauling of narrow steel tire wagons, it is a road that will be put to a most severe test.

"It is not the purpose of the state highway department to boost any particular company's oil," said W. J. Merrill, state chemist, "for in counties that sell purchased outright for the testing, we do not permit a distinction between the companies and the sections on which their oil is applied. DeWitt county oil being donated, it is only fair that the companies be given the distinction."

"The purpose of the application of test oil is to study the effects of the kinds of oil the best maintenance methods and the amount required for application under different conditions. In addition to a general study of oiling of secondary roads. Neither does the state apply test oil for the purpose of replacing hard roads, but rather to determine the best maintenance for secondary roads."

The amount of oil necessary for application depends largely on conditions of the soil and the amount of traffic on the road.

"The second year requires less preparation than the first. It is also true that it requires less oil the second year than the first. There should be an early summer and a fall application on all roads that bear up heavy traffic. That insures a good road through the summer, and a serviceable one in the winter."

"The practical result as obtained will be determined in the future, after the road has undergone severe traffic. Soil conditions also enter into the situation but one who desires to make a close study can secure a soil map from the University of Illinois, to guide him in determining the most practical application. The regular standard application on the county roads of DeWitt county are one quart per square yard."

"Delegations of road men from over the state of Illinois are expected to view and examine this test road from time to time as the season progresses. The road grading is a beautiful sight, it is in exact accordance with standard width and slope. Grain hauling in steel-tire wagons cut it up to a certain extent, but not enough to seriously handicap it."

"A second application will probably be made later in the season. After a required lapse of time the road will again be examined and should further application of oil on certain sections be necessary for the proper maintenance of the road, that will be done."

MOTHER OF MORGAN RESIDENT INTERRED

Services for Mrs. Hepsey Hayes, Mother of Ernest G. Hayes of This City Were Held This Afternoon

Ashland, Aug. 22.—Funeral services for Mrs. Hepsey Hayes, who passed away here Wednesday morning, were held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in charge of Rev. J. A. Biddle, pastor of the M. E. church. Interment was made in the Berea cemetery.

Mrs. Hayes died at the home of her son, Ezekiah Hayes, at the age of 69 years, 11 months and eight days. She leaves five sons, Gus, Edward L. and Wesley Hayes of Jacksonville and Ezekiah Hayes of Ashland and two daughters, Mrs. C. E. McMillan, Farmington, and Mrs. T. G. Evans, Beardstown. She is also survived by a sister in Peoria and a brother in Indiana.

ROTARY CLUB MET AT CHAUTAUQUA

Mrs. Marian Chase Schaeffer gave a number of readings at the Friday meeting of the Rotary club, which was held at the dining hall on the chautauqua grounds. Mrs. Schaeffer was introduced by Carl O. Gordon, who is chairman of the program committee. The selections Mrs. Schaeffer made were of a kind to make special appeal to her audience and were heard with pleasure.

R. W. Woolston, president of the club, presided in the earlier part of the session and introduced the following guests:

Warren Hulet, Springfield; C. K. Stone, Detroit, Frank Watson, East St. Louis; Harry Snoddy, Owensboro, Ky.; Stewart Dobyns, Weatherford, Okla.; L. W. Snerly, Decatur; Mrs. J. H. Danskin, Miss Martha Greenleaf, John W. Larson, Jacksonville.

The women of the Christian church served an excellent dinner and compliments by the Rotarians were made.

ROBBERS IN HOLDUP NEAR SWIMMING POOL

Robbers were busy in Nichols Park Thursday night, according to the statements of Walter Parks, who claims to have been a victim. Mr. Parks told police that he was seated on a bench near the swimming pool, in company with a Miss Sherman. Two men approached, and one of them covered the couple with a revolver. The other man frisked Parks and relieved him of two dollars in cash.

The robber was also about to take Parks watch, when the latter pleaded for it, saying that it was a gift from his mother. The man with the gun then ordered his companion to let the man keep his watch. The robbers did not molest Parks' companion. Parks was unable to give police an accurate description of the bandits.

ILLINOIS RIVER RISING RAPIDLY

C. A. Osborne of this city was in Beardstown last night and reports that the Beardstown residents have been notified that a rise in the river may be expected within 24 hours to a height of 21 feet. The situation along the river is such that some of the residents of that city are removing their property to higher ground.

LOCAL PEOPLE ATTEND REUNION IN CALIFORNIA

James E. Johnson and family who left Jacksonville on July 3 to travel to California by auto, arrived in Oakland on August 8. After spending ten days with a sister, Mrs. Clyde Costello, in Ashland, Ore. They are now the guests of Mr. Johnson's mother, Mrs. James M. Johnson, formerly a resident of Morgan county, two sisters, Mrs. Ella Williams and Mrs. Maude Trulan, and two brothers, David and William D. Johnson.

The local people were accompanied to Oakland by Mrs. Costello, and a family reunion was held on Tuesday August 17, at the home of Mrs. James M. Johnson, 1523 Fairview street, Berkeley, when all the family were reunited after more than twenty years.

Those present were David A. Johnson and three children, Mrs. Ella Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. R. Johnson and daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Costello, Mrs. Maude Trulan and husband and two children, William D. Johnson and wife and three children.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson made good time in most states. They visited Yellowstone park, Colorado Springs and Portland.

CLOTHING FIRM IN NEW LOCATION

The cutting department of the Jacksonville Clothing Company has been moved to its new quarters in the west room of the Odd Fellows' building on East State street, recently vacated by John H. O'Donnell. A number of officials and employees of the company were at the new location yesterday completing the removal.
